 Context: The Care-Share Forum has a strong belief in the statement: “Helping others is helping us”. The Practice: All the faculty members of the department will be available to their students on a prescribed day and time for their assistance on a mutually agreed basis. Students of various classes may meet any faculty member for any of their academic concerned problems, discuss with them informally, freely, and frankly. Students who are more hesitant in regular classrooms can freely interact with any faculty member either individually or in groups. All the faculty members are easily and readily available to every student.

Students can get feedback about their assigned tasks, preparing for seminars, writing assignments, projects, etc. Students of different classes can easily come together, talk together, listen together, undertake work together, learn together, discuss and finalize any department-related issues. Students can discuss any of their personal or study-related problems with the faculty members and ask for a timely suggestion, help, assistance, remedy, etc., This is a place where the student can independently discuss the contemporary issues related to their areas of interest.

 Problems Encountered: Students in the forum used to share the problems relating to the college including library facilities rather than subject-specific problems.
